When it comes to writing styles, the format for APA citations can be a formidable foe. However, if you break down the APA format into the basics, it doesn't look so scary. Use this easy-to-follow APA format paper guide to break down your research writing into easy steps. Get a free APA citation generator to help in your reference page creation and examples for tricky APA citations. APA Citation Generator and Guidelines You can make the writing of your paper easier by using a free APA citation generator. The American Psychological Association (APA) writing format has a whole book of guidelines for creating a paper from start to finish. However, the most important aspect of the APA writing style is the APA in-text and reference list citations. While you can create these citations by hand, the Bibliography.com citation generator creates accurate and free citations to use in-text and in your reference list. How to Create APA In-Text Citations Parenthetical or in-text citations sometimes get confused with reference citations, but these two are different. In-text citations are found in the body of your paper. Reference citations are at the end of the paper in the eReferences section. That's an easy way to keep track of the two. Additionally, for every in-text citation, you should have a corresponding reference list citation. How to Make an APA In-Text Citation Chapter 8 of the APA manual gives you a clear run down for creating in-text citations. APA in-text citations use the author-date format. In addition to having a specific format, different types of text are going to be quoted differently. Explore how to make citations for quotes. Short quotes use quotation marks around the quoted text and have the author's name (or multiple authors' names), date, and the page number. Long quotes are in block quote format. Summarizing or paraphrasing should include the name and date. The page number can be included but required. Working with authors If the cited source has an author, six authors, or no author, you have to account for everything. Only a few ways in which the authors can be quoted in the text include: Unknown author: Title of the source Author: Author's name Two authors: Author's name Author 1 & Surname Author 2 Three or more Authors: Author's name 1 et al. Footnotes in APA Format Paper Footnotes can cause a lot of writer anxiety; fortunately, they are not commonly used in APA format. When used, footnotes are used for copyrighted material or to provide additional information in the text. Instead of using the author date format, it creates footnotes in the APA style using superscript numbers in the text and a reference at the bottom of the page. APA Format Citation: Reference List Like everything else in your paper, your reference list needs to follow specific rules to format and create your appointments set by chapters 9 and 10 of the APA manual. In addition to being double space and including a page number, you need to place your references in alphabetical order. Authors in APA format When the authors are listed in APA article citations, follow the same basic format for one or two authors you made for your quotes in text. But when it comes to two to twenty authors, you need to write them in full. For a resource with twenty-one or more authors, write the first nineteen authors, then add three ellipsis points, followed by the final author. Note: In section 9.8 of the Publication Manual, chapter 10.
